

Student's opinions

I would like to express my appreciation for the lecture on "Interpersonal closeness in education, especially in people with disability education", 6th May 2024, delivered by dr Monika Pyrczak-Piega to Special Education BA students at University of Debrecen. The session provided valuable insights into the practical aspects of building and maintaining close relationships, which are essential in both personal and professional life. The topics discussed were not only relevant but also highly engaging, helping students to better understand the dynamics of human connection.
